"My Doll"

Here is my dolly all tattered and torn.
Everyone loves her even though she is worn.
Her body is floppy and her hair is a mess,
But I love her dearly, and she loves me best.

Quilt Appraisals - Why They Are Needed

Should you have your quilts appraised? Not just Grandmother's heirloom or the fabulous garage sale find, but your own contemporary masterpiece? As an American Quilter's Society Certified Appraiser of Quilted Textiles, the answer is definitely YES! After the last stitches of the binding are sewn and the label attached, the final step toward completion should be a certified appraisal.

An appraisal provides a written statement of value and includes such information as the pattern name, the circa date (10 years before or after), a brief description of the quilt, any information regarding the quilt's "provenance" or history and the estimated value based on additional research and the appraiser's experience. For newly made quilts, important information includes the design source, the cost of the fabrics and materials used and any awards that might have been won. Most appraisals take about 30 minutes to examine the quilt and gather information and cost about $35-$50 per quilt.

Quilts should be appraised for insurance value in case of loss, theft or damage. Many national quilt shows are requiring appraisals before exhibiting and if a quilt is lost in shipping without a written appraisal, you will be insured for the cost of materials only - not the art value. An appraisal can also be done to establish the "fair market" value should you wish to sell your quilt or finally for "donation" value when your intention is to donate the family heirloom to a museum or historical society. Appraisals are completed to settle family estates, to leave written proof for your family of the true worth of your art form and sometimes simply when you are curious as to the actual value of that wonderful garage sale find!

While the sentimental value of a family heirloom or the hours spent creating and hand quilting your masterpiece can never be replaced, an appraisal can assist you in substantiating the value of your loss.

3 Things Quilters Should NOT do based on a lecture by Angela Waters at QuiltCon

1. Stop comparing your worst work to others best work. "Comparison is the thief of joy" said Theodore Roosevelt.
2. Don't point out your mistakes.
3. Don't forget the purpose of the quilt.
